French Lose in Algeria

Boycott by
Moslems Doom's
Faure Plan

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Bitter fighting and strong opposition from Moslem Assemblymen virtually doomed France's plans for integrating Algeria today.

The Moslem majority of the Algerian assembly rejected as a total failure France's proposal for integration. The Moslems threatened to boycott tonight's opening session of the assembly.

Throughout the North African territory, rebels stirred up more trouble. An estimated 80 insurgents were slain in the last 24 hours during a massive anti-rebel drive by French troops.

SECESSION CALL?

The action of the Moslem assemblymen amounted to a virtual call for secession because Algeria is constitutionally an indivisible part of metropolitan France.

Informal sources said Governor-General Jacques Soustelle would resign if the delegates carried out their threat to walk out of tonight's consultative chamber.

PLAN "OUTDATED"

The motion denouncing integration said the plan, stated in a 1947 statute, was "outdated." The Moslems approved it only 48 hours after Premier Edgar Faure broadcast an appeal re-affirming France's determination for integration.

Meanwhile, clean-up operations continued throughout the Constantinople department in North Africa.

A mobile column from neighboring Tunisia killed an estimated 50 rebels in a sweep through the rugged mountain country. Infantry units reported slaying 24 in clashes near Montcalm. One soldier was killed and five wounded.

END OF FAURE?

Right-wing elements in the French government hope that the North African crisis will lead to the downfall of Faure's cabinet. They figure that the new government will shelve all liberal reforms and maintain order by force of arms. They believe concessions will lead to the loss of Algeria.

'JANET' LEAVES 200 DEAD

Two Canadians Lost In Hurricane Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Caribbean's waters, whipped to a white frenzy by hurricane Janet, were being searched by plane and ship today for a hurricane hunter aircraft missing on a storm mission with 11 men on board, including two Canadian newspaper men.

Janet, stepping up her forward pace to about 20 miles an hour and bearing down on Swan Island, a little U.S.-owned group off the Honduras coast, was moving out of the area of search but the seas remained rough. Janet shifted her course during

Rough Seas Rebuff Flo On Third Try

DOVER, Eng. (AP)—Florence Chadwick was defeated by rough water early today in her third attempt of the year to swim the English Channel.

The 35-year-old California swimmer, who had beaten the channel three times in previous seasons, struck it out until 4 a.m. (8 p.m. Monday PST) hoping to make an England-to-France-and-return crossing. She was lifted into the escort boat when freshening winds made it obvious that she could not carry on.

Her two previous attempts this summer ended before she reached the French coast.

She was 7½ miles out when her handlers decided to call it quits.

'How About a Little Kiss, Pal?'

Felix the friendly 'gator is full of love and affection for Frank Beebe, Provincial Museum artist, but Mr. Beebe would rather admire the alligator's molars from a respectful distance. Felix is popular attraction at museum's small, "live" exhibit, answers when whistled for, enjoys a steady diet of liver, and, at 18 years of age, is only two feet long. But he'll be over 10 feet when mature, in a mere 100 years or so. (Times Photo.)

Ike Recovery Aids Wall St.

Shares Soar After $13 Billion

Tumble Sparked by Eisenhower Illness

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

NEW YORK—Bargain hunters swamped Wall Street today as news of President Eisenhower's continued good progress lifted the nation from the gloom of Saturday's heart attack.

In a backlash to Monday's stock market tumble, share prices recovered much of the $13,000,000,000 lopped from stocks listed on New York.

At Toronto nearly a fifth of Monday's 17-point decline was regained in first-hour trading. (Details of stock market action will be found on Page 7.)

From the President's sickbed in Denver, Colo., doctors reported Mr. Eisenhower had a "very good night" and slept almost continuously for more than 10 hours.

Piles of documents were seized but there was no report of any arrests.

Premises raided included those of many groups which have been loudest in their opposition to the South African government's white supremacy racial policy.

MONTH IN HOSPITAL

The President is able to leave the oxygen tent for as much as 30 minutes at a time.

But his doctors say they have advised him to remain in the hospital for about a month.

Mr. Eisenhower, who has been provided a suite of rooms in the hospital, visits him frequently.

Their son, Major John Eisenhower, planned to return to his army post at Fort Belvoir, Va., today.

NIXON TAKES OVER

Meantime Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has begun his new role as unofficial "acting president." He conferred today with the government's top financial officers and Republican party leaders.

Mr. Nixon will preside over the scheduled cabinet meeting Friday, and over the National Security Council's weekly meeting Thursday.

Earlier plans for immediate legal action to delegate some Presidential powers to the vice-president have been shelved.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. who cut short his Europe vacation to fly back to Washington, told reporters there now "is no necessity for action today."

Responsible government officials scoff at reports the President might consider resigning because of his illness.

But most leading newspapers agree he probably won't run in 1956.

BROTHER PROPOSED

The Chicago Sun-Times varied the usual pattern by suggesting to the Republicans they would "do well" to choose Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother.

And through all the editorial comments, regardless of political affiliation, was the thought voiced by Milwaukee Journal—"the most important thing is that President Eisenhower get well."

Power Commission Fights Battle Writ

Lawyers Ordered To Oppose Stay; Tenders Opened

B.C. Power Commission officials announced today they will fight a move by conservationists to halt the raising of Buttle Lake through a Supreme Court injunction.

Writ seeking the injunction was issued in the supreme court registry at Vancouver late Monday, and was served on the BCPC and Deputy Attorney General Alan Maclean today.

An injunction would put an immediate halt to the commission's plans for clearing timber along Buttle Lake within the confines of Strathcona Park.

Tenders for clearing the timber were to be opened at 2 p.m. today in the commission's offices.

CONTRACT TO BE LET?

A commission spokesman said the power body "has not yet decided" whether a contract will be awarded while the legal battle is in progress.

Workmen have started construction of the Upper Campbell Lake dam, which, when completed, will raise the level of Buttle Lake 19 feet over normal high water mark.

The writ was entered by Victoria lawyer Jack Gatehouse and Vancouver lawyers Tom G. Norris and George Cumming on behalf of Victoria mortgage firm employee Eric Charman and Mrs. Virginia Reid Moore, the daughter of California oil millionaire Will Reid, owner of a lodge on Buttle Lake, and nationally-known conservationist.

Drug Smugglers Caught

CAIRO (UPI)—Camel-riding Frontier cowboys chased a band of smugglers across the desert almost to the gates of Cairo and seized a multi-million-dollar haul of narcotics in a gun battle to-day.

Typhoon Nears Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Louise, the year's most violent storm in the Pacific, bollied steadily toward Japan today as air force technicians worked to repair the U.S. base on Iwo Jima, flattened by the storm Sunday.

Operation Lifesaver

CALGARY (CP)—Civil defence planners are optimistic today that Operation Lifesaver, the mass evacuation of the north-east section of Calgary, will be carried out Wednesday as planned.

Referendum Blocked

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A referendum on fluoridation of the city's water supply, suggested by Ald. Bob Fawdry at Monday's city council meeting, was blocked because it is not authorized under the Municipal Act.

INITIATED HERE

Mr. Charman, who initiated the injunction proceedings, said Mrs. Moore is appearing as co-plaintiff "strictly on the advice of my counsel."

He said that Mrs. Moore holds a mineral claim in the affected area on Buttle Lake, and that he was proud to be associated with a member of the Reid family, with its long history of conservation.

WEST PENALIZED

Meanwhile, Thomas Ingledow, vice-president and executive engineer of the B.C. Electric Co., issued a statement today supporting the development of power through the Upper Campbell Lake dam.

He said "I am satisfied that the water rights branch of the department of lands and forests, and the provincial government, fully assessed the value of all factors when authorization was given to impound the waters of Buttle lake for power purposes," said Mr. Ingledow.

Mr. Ingledow said that if the "renewed effort by a certain group to further oppose the utilization of the waters of Buttle lake" is acceded to "a critical reduction in power output would result."

UNREALISTIC?

Mr. Ingledow said that statements to the effect that hydro developments on the island, and on the mainland, should be held back because of developments in atomic energy, "are most unrealistic."

He said "it will be many many years before electricity produced by nuclear energy will be available in large quantities and at a price competitive with or even approaching our present low cost of electricity produced by water power."

Vigil to End?

Penguin Matilda may become a mother—or a father—today.

Matilda is a king penguin who for more than seven weeks has been patiently cuddling an egg at Vancouver's Stanley Park Zoo. But for all anyone knows at the zoo Matilda could easily be a he.

Curator Alan Best says the egg should hatch today and if a penguin emerges it will be the second born in captivity in North America.

Blood Clot in Heart Is No Longer Fatal

Modern Medical Science Has Ways To Keep Amazing Life Pump Going

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower's heart attack comes at a time when medical science is scoring its first major victories against the continent's leading killer.

Just 30 years ago heart attacks like his killed 50 per cent of the men they struck. Today 80 to 90 per cent survive the first attack.

And best of all, many go back to normal lives and normal or nearly normal work. Most can live happily for many years.

This radical change was born of new knowledge, new discoveries in laboratories, new understandings of that amazing life pump; the human heart.

WEAPONS INVENTED

Similar advances have supplied the weapons to banish rheumatic fever — the great killer and crippler of children. They have brought new drugs to combat high blood pressure, new surgery to repair defective hearts, even heart-lung machines putting the heart on a holiday; new tips on how-to-live with your heart and avoid trouble.

Consider, first, this instrument of life's vitality, an organ the size of two fists. It beats and pulses 38,000,000 times a year. Daily it pumps 4,320 gallons of blood through 60,000 miles of blood vessels—a distance of 2½ times the earth's equator.

It rarely complains. But your heart has a secret—it rests between strokes.

Why is it vulnerable to the heart attack?

Your heart is a muscle. It also must have nourishment, lished Wednesday.)

Johnny Can't Spell Either, Says Expert

By RUDOLF FLESCH

Reading is one thing, you think, spelling is another. It's enough of a problem to bring Johnny up to par with his reading, so why try to make a crack speller out of him at the same time?

Yes, that's the common attitude. Reading and spelling are considered two different "subjects." To learn reading, you do this; to learn spelling, you do that.

It is one of the main points of this book that that attitude is all wrong. Reading and spelling are two sides of the same thing, and the trouble starts as soon as you separate the two. The only way to teach reading is by teaching spelling at the same time.

With a phonetic alphabet and the phonetic method it's simply a question of overcoming illiteracy and learning which letter stands for which sound. Once you know that, you can read and spell.

But reading is not taught by way of phonics any more. So how do today's children learn to spell? Even after I found out about the whole-word method of teaching reading and was about halfway through the research for this book, I still believed that when it comes to spelling, our children finally get some phonics. I simply couldn't imagine that anyone can learn to spell at all without learning the pronunciation of the letters.

HOW IT'S DONE
Well, I learned different. We have reached the point where phonics has been driven out even of the teaching of spelling. Then how can you teach a child that princess is spelled p r i n c e s s? Like this (I am quoting from the latest edition of the official manual for elementary school teachers, published by the education department of the State of New York):

"Following are proposals for conducting a spelling program.
1. Lead the children to feel that spelling is important.
2. Combine spelling with vocabulary and dictionary work arousing the children's interest in individual words and in language in general..."

HERE'S WHY
There are, for instance, the common misspellings "writing," "occasion," and "succeed." The reason for "writing" is of course that written has two 't's and the poor speller has a dim notion that there are also two 't's in writing. Occasion, he knows, has two 'c's or two 's's. But which? He guesses, and nine times out of 10 he guesses wrong. As to succeed, he has a feeling that there can't be a double e in English; isn't it always ck? So he writes "succeed."

A person trained in phonics can't possibly make any of these mistakes. He knows, for instance, that a double consonant results in a short vowel sound and that therefore "writing" would rhyme with sitting; he knows that the zh sound in occasion can only be spelled with a single s and that "occasion" would rhyme with fashion; he knows that the sound of ks as in success is sometimes spelled ks.

"e. Urge the children to notice carefully the way the word looks before they try to reproduce it on paper.

"4. Use the word in context both before and after the correct spelling is presented. This deepens understanding on the part of the children as to what the word means.
5. Emphasize the syllabication of words..."

"6. Provide at frequent intervals for each child to review his own list of words that are hard for him."

As you can see from this, the currently accepted teaching of spelling (and surely New York State is typical of the U.S. in this matter) consists in teaching first the meaning of the word—which hasn't a thing to do with spelling—and secondly, its pronunciation.

Now the pronunciation, of course, is a help in spelling, but only if you know how to trans-scribe the sounds into letters. This the children in the State of New York—and in the other 49 states—are not taught.

HERE'S THE RESULT

And what's the result of this modern method of teaching spelling? Look into any college handbook of English and you'll find a long list of common spelling errors college students are apt to make. Here are some current campus favorites: accurate, Britian, business (for Britain), calvary (for cavalry), considerable (for considerate), definite (for definite), different (for different), despite (for despite), doctor (for doctor), February (for February), forty (for forty), grammar (for grammar), irrelevant (for irrelevant), library (for library), medicine (for medicine), occasion (for occasion), preparation (for privilege), succeed (for succeed), surprise (for surprise), writing (for writing).

I give you this list of familiar mistakes because it shows quite clearly what's the trouble with our teaching of spelling. The trouble is that with our system of teaching even the simplest words present difficulties that shouldn't ever arise.

A person who was taught phonics in first grade wouldn't misspell any of the words on my list. Let me show you why this is so. Let's look at a few of these words a little more closely.

HERE'S WHY
There are, for instance, the common misspellings "writing," "occasion," and "succeed." The reason for "writing" is of course that written has two 't's and the poor speller has a dim notion that there are also two 't's in writing. Occasion, he knows, has two 'c's or two 's's. But which? ## WHY JOHNNY CAN'T READ

Different Approaches Needed For Spelling?

By LOCAL TEACHERS

Dr. Flesch would have the reader believe that the problems that occur in both reading and spelling are the result of the teaching methods employed. Change the method and avoid these difficulties! That is all there is to it!

"Use the all-phonetic approach to reading," he would say, "and Johnny will become a competent reader and a crack speller!"

There is something reminiscent here of the barker at the old medicine shows—"Step right up, ladies and gentlemen! Buy a bottle of Dr. So-and-So's Snake Oil, good for man and beast! Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!"

You may well be suspicious of any medicine guaranteed to cure all diseases.

MISSLEADING
Dr. Flesch says, "Reading and spelling are two sides of the same thing, and trouble starts when you separate the two." This statement is deliberately misleading. If he were to say that there is some relation between the art of reading well and the ability to spell well, we should all agree. But such an observation would not sell Snake Oil. His remarks must be arresting, extravagant and high-pressure—"Hurry! Hurry! Hurry!"

Reading does bring the correct form of words before the eyes; and after many such exposures, the eye will aid the mind to retain the image of the word. It is generally conceded that intelligent and observant people who read a good deal are able to spell well. This is, however, only a happy coincidence. In the field of "Language Arts" may be included all the experiences of children in speaking, reading, writing, and spelling. These are interrelated. To be successful in any one of these departments of language requires the development of definite skills and abilities within each area.

Let us explain why spelling MUST be considered as being quite separate from reading.

WORD LISTS
The words that children use depend upon their purpose. For speaking and listening, young children have fairly large vocabularies; for purposes of reading, the words known and used are much fewer; and for writing (which involves spelling), the word-list is smaller.

THE Daylight

IS ITS OWN BEST AD

As the Shasta Daylight flashes by—and you get glimpses of the passengers' faces—the very sight is enough. How relaxed! What fun! What a perfect way to go from Portland to California.

Aboard it, a full and fun day. Read, nap, move about, eat, drink, lounge, do what you like, all the way to San Francisco... and the fares are very low! Outside 5-foot picture windows the marvelous scenery of Oregon and California.

Rewarding travel like this is what Southern Pacific tries to provide. We are your railroad—serving more of the west and southwest than any other railroad. We're looking ahead, trying to work out new ways to improve our service—both freight and passenger.

Flesch's "Medicine Oil" sales campaign seem effective.

The phonic approach is not the whole answer. Some children have no "ear" for phonics, as some people are "tone deaf" in music. Then again there are many words in the language that are not phonetic in their spelling. Hildreth, in learning the three r's tells this story:

"A school boy was struggling with an examination question on 'Treasure Island.' In answer to one question he wrote 'vezel,' then 'vesel,' not satisfied with these attempts, he wrote 'vezelle' and finally, in exasperation, he crossed out all the attempts and wrote simply 'The boat wasreckt!'"

Then again, "Two adults were overheard trying to spell 'decipher.' They began with confidence 'de-' but from then on they knew not which route to take—'sy', 'sc', 'si', 'ci', 'cy', 'sp'—were some of the trials, followed by 'fer', 'fur', 'phur', 'pher'. This last syllable caused an agony of uncertainty."

SPELLING KNOW-HOW

What do we mean by the expression to "know how to spell"? Try this experiment: Go to a number of people, one at a time, and ask how they spell the word "conscientious." Watch carefully what happens. One will rattle off the letters in a continuous stream without hesitation; others will look off into space with a vacant stare and slowly give you the letters; others will say, "Give me a pencil" and will explain that they are never sure of spelling until they write the word; and still others will give you the letters in groups, that is, syllables. Some people will use several of these methods. Let us now assume that in each case the word was spelled correctly. Each one obviously knew "how" to spell the word. Knowing how, however, was something different in each case.

We must admit that there are many roads to successful spelling. The phonic or sound approach is only one of them. Modern methods of teaching spelling, as we have maintained in the teaching of reading, involve several techniques. The only condition placed upon any method is that, it must be successful for the individual.

The methods employed in the Canadian schools stress this multiple approach in attacking a word. The steps involved include the following: Seeing the word; saying the word; observing phonic elements; writing the word; checking the spelling; rewriting and rechecking as power of expression through the correct use of the word.

Once again we are grateful to the Victoria Daily Times for being permitted to discuss teaching methods that are currently in use in the province. We have given these questions the seriousness of attention that we feel they require. We must only deplore the fact that Dr. Flesch's attack upon teaching methods appears to be superficial.

Health and Mr. Frost

THE FORTHCOMING FEDERAL provincial conference is clouded with mathematical confusion in the public mind and also with an interesting personal mystery. What does Premier Frost, of Ontario, intend to do about national health insurance? His answer to that question at the conference may well determine the future of public medical service in Canada.

Until recently the Federal Government was convinced that Mr. Frost's gestures of support for health insurance were entirely political and aimed at his provincial election some months ago. Now it appears that the Ontario premier, a man notable for his honesty and bluntness, is earnestly determined to solve the financial problem of human illness. But what he proposes is completely unknown in Ottawa.

Whatever he has to propose to the conference will be of first-rate importance because the Federal Government has said that it cannot attempt national health insurance without the support of Ontario or Quebec. One or the other of the big provinces must be in any such scheme or it will not be launched. Will it be launched against Mr. Duplessis' implacable opposition, if Mr. Frost favors it? And in what form?

Health insurance is a vague term which could mean different things and different costs. We have in British Columbia, for instance, Mr. Byron Johnson's excellent hospital insurance scheme covering the largest part of all medical costs. In Saskatchewan a parallel scheme is in effect. Other provinces make health grants in various forms and so does the central Government.

In 1953 (the last year for which figures are available) 40 per cent of the Canadian people had privately insured themselves against the cost of hospitalization. The British Columbia and Saskatchewan state schemes probably brought this figure up to 60 per cent.

Hence the nubbin of the problem nationally is the remaining 40 per cent who either cannot or will not insure themselves through private schemes and are not protected by state schemes.

It will be interesting to see whether Mr. Frost is ready to make the plunge into total health insurance, including medical treatment as well as hospitalization. This would involve gigantic expenditures if it were established in all provinces.

The cost of sickness in Canada at present is reckoned, by the latest statistics, at $840,000,000 a year, including doctors, dentists, hospitals, nurses, drugs and all kinds of treatment. If the state were to assume all these costs, and if they did not rise as a result, the nation's total taxation must rise by not much less than 20 per cent, no matter how it is distributed.

It is impossible to imagine, however, that the cost would remain the same in public as in private hands. As all experience has shown, it would certainly rise.

The financial problems of health insurance are thus far more formidable than those of any former social experiment like old age pensions and children's allowances. But another vital difference must be noted: Whereas the Federal Government finances the two pension systems (some of the provinces making extra contributions) no province will be bound to enter the health insurance system if it is established.

The Federal Government is not undertaking to do this huge job alone, but only to assist any province which undertakes it. Even that commitment is tentative and seems to depend, at the moment, on the attitude of Ontario. Everyone knows what Mr. Duplessis will say at Ottawa—the customary "non." What has Mr. Frost to say?

We Could Not Do Without It

CONSIDERING THE MAGNITUDE of the problems which it must face each year the United Nations Assembly has achieved an impressive stature in international affairs. As The New York Times points out, it is not quite a "Parliament of Man" but it is the nearest approach to such a body the world has produced. The value of its presence may be measured in part by the extent of the loss the world would suffer were it suddenly to collapse.

Hard experience has forced the Assembly beyond the limits of its original purpose. It was set up with the intention that it would debate matters within its competence and make recommendations for action. The decisions it made would be implemented by the Security Council.

But it was soon found that the use of the veto by Soviet delegates to the Council made agreement by that body impossible in many cases that required urgent action. The result has been that the Assembly—the meeting of all the UN member nations—has taken on some of the duties of its committee. The quick handling of the Korean invasion crisis was a case in point.

The present UN session ranks among the most important yet held. Now a week old, it is at grips with some of the most serious and touchy problems afflicting the world. Disarmament is a major subject for discussion, with Russia calling for an early reduction of forces and abandonment of foreign bases, and the United States urging methods of supervision and inspection to make disarmament effective.

For an Early and Complete Recovery

IT IS TO BE HOPED THAT THE complete physical check-up to be undergone in Vancouver by Canada's minister of fisheries, Mr. James Sinclair, will produce encouraging reports.

The seriousness of his injuries from a fall during his Russian visit has been indicated, but in nebulous terms. In his home town and with the benefit of excellent medical attention it should be possible to determine what is needed to restore him to complete and vigorous health.

The early recovery of the man who has worked so energetically for the advancement of Canadian fisheries is a matter of both personal and national concern.

Where to Put It?

and thus not contaminate the sea-water and marine life.

But many experts do not favor this method. They fear that eventually the effects of the radioactivity may be felt. Britain also has dumped the wastes in abandoned coal mines, which could also have hazardous consequences in years to come.

The fact is that the problem of radioactive waste disposal has not yet received a unanimously approved solution. There have even been proposals that the materials be loaded aboard rockets and shot to the moon. Certainly this problem will not be solved by the method of the hillbilly who, queried about garbage disposal, replied that he just kicked it around until it got lost.

Britain recently dumped 1,500 tons of such material, including concrete containers, into a deep area off Land's End. The theory is that the containers will prevent the escape of dangerous radiation for a long time.

As atomic power plants and reactors operate they produce radioactive waste products that must be disposed of. Some of these materials lose their radioactivity fairly quickly and become harmless. But others retain it, and may remain lethal for many years.

Britain recently dumped 1,500 tons of such material, including concrete containers, into a deep area off Land's End. The theory is that the

Man and Institution

ANYONE WHO has seen Mr. Eisenhower face to face and felt the irresistible warmth of his nature will be thinking today not so much of the President as of the man. Any American President is both an institution and a human being. Mr. Eisenhower's illness is only the latest proof of the fact that the institution, as now established, is simply too big for any human being to carry for long. The Presidency is becoming, literally, an impossible job of work.

Until he fell ill it appeared certain that, despite his own wishes, he would have to run again. The forces of history now in full tide, the international policies of peace which he had launched, and the prospect of a Republican defeat if he left the scene all combined to compel a second term.

Now a second term may well be impossible. The nation has exacted a full lifetime of service from a soldier and a statesman. It cannot ask him to remain in office unless he enjoys not only recovery but perfect health; since only a man in perfect health can possibly endure the present strains of office.

ALL this is the result of an iron-clad constitution which was founded, in respect of the Presidency, on a curious mis-reading of British history.

One hundred and sixty-eight years ago this month the Founding Fathers met in Philadelphia, determined to save their new nation from the evils of the British monarchy. They did not realize, after their experience with George III, that the monarchy in fact was steadily losing its power and, within half a century, would be a danger to nobody.

Therefore every possible device was invented to prevent the concentration of power in any single American organ of government. Power was split between the executive and the legislature. But the world has changed since then in a fashion which the architects of the Constitution could not foresee and the outcome is a concentration of power in the executive which they could not imagine.

POWER flows into the White House and ebbs as its occupants follow one another. A strong man accumulates power invisibly and a weak man loses even the power guaranteed to him by law.

In the case of Mr. Eisenhower the accumulation of power has been rapid and massive because he has accumulated the overwhelming support and affection of the people in unprecedented measure.

With power comes responsibility and a load of care quite unimaginable to any private citizen. Now, at Denver, we see the human result of a top-heavy institution which has failed to distribute power, and as the Founding Fathers intended, and has stricken its latest victim.

THIS man, his face, his cheerful grin and obvious goodwill, have captured the world's imagination. Nevertheless, the institution must go on and its immediate future will be deeply changed by the President's collapse.

That is why the illness of the President is not only a moving human tragedy, touching every decent man in the world, but, for the time being, an international disaster.

As Our Readers See It

BULLY FOR DR. FLESCH

Bully for Dr. Rudolf Flesch and his excellent article. Sure we mothers could sit down 'night after night and have our children memorize the dictionary. It would take time, sweat and our nerves would be shot, but we like the common sense method.

Oh, no, Dr. Flesch, the mothers love you for even daring to suggest there is something wrong with the system of the so-called authorities.

Maybe, just maybe, you have started the ball rolling.

Why must some smart authority always come in with the idea, "Oh, heavens, that's too easy. Let's do it the hard way."

A MOTHER.

EVERYBODY A MILLIONAIRE

I greet with unqualified approval the recent proposal to stimulate B.C. prosperity by reducing the value of the Canadian dollar to 90 cents U.S.

My only regret is the rather half-hearted nature of the suggestion. As I understand it, its advocates urge merely a single devaluation of our currency, thus revealing their outlook as, though praiseworthy, static rather than dynamic.

Surely it is apparent that if one reduction in the value of our dollar would be a blessing, a continuous series of such reductions would combine the happier features of Aladdin's lamp and the Philosopher's Stone.

The conclusion is obvious. What is really needed is an annual reduction in the value of our money. In this way the wealth of the world would drain rapidly into B.C.; we should all in a short time be millionaires, while foreigners would merely be left paddling feebly up the well-known creek.

It would be best to admit, though, before my guilty secret is unearthed by Flash, that in addition to my zeal for the public welfare I have a private reason for this far-sighted proposal. I happen to own a piece of land containing 1.46 acres, which at present is impossible to sell to anyone applying under the V.L.A., as the latter insists on a minimum of 16.

As reducing the value of the dollar by 10% automatically makes each of us 10% better off, it is apparent that even the first such reduction will increase the size of my lot to 1.6 acres and its disposal should then be easy. It will be seen, then, that I cannot regard the impending economic revolution with completely detached feelings.

MORE FEED

After timber-cutting, the subsequent feeding which appears increases the feed for deer and game birds.

The Game Board has issued new regulations allowing the shooting of fawns and does, on the false pretence that tree cutting goes away with their feed.

Extermination, is the International watch-word, little song birds and all.

All that is needed for it is "time" and public gullibility.

Buttle Still a Vital Issue

SACRED TRUST

I am not acquainted with the scenic advantages of Buttle Lake any more than I am with the deed bequeathing the area to the people for their enjoyment as a recreational centre in perpetuity. Nevertheless I believe it to be a fact.

I also believe that it would do violence to the legacy to make of it an industrial enterprise or deviate from its provisions in any manner suggesting this. It would also appear that the government of which Mr. Bennett is the head is the custodian of this trust to see that the terms of the will are faithfully carried out to the public.

Although one may be ignorant of the precise nature of the bequest, surely the one point above all others is the plain and bounden duty of the executors to scrupulously observe the conditions of the document no matter how pressing the claims of industrial interests may seem. Otherwise it would be a shameful betrayal of their trust, in which case there is not a grave danger of creating a precedent that would make it possible for any will to be set aside, and justice perverted, at the whim of a judge? The prerogative of the government that it cannot be sued is despotic and tyrannical. Where do they get this divine right?

Supposing the park was allowed to be exploited for commercial purposes and some millions of dollars flowed into the treasury, there are those who claim that the monetary gain would be pauper in comparison to that which will eventually accrue from the influx of visitors.

The prospect of flogging Buttle Lake from its rightful heirs has heightened the public pulse like that of a she-bear robbed of her cubs, and certainly bodes ill to Premier Bennett and his government. If he persists in his plan, Retribution is certain, and no amount of money will compensate for such flagrant injustice that would blacken the record of the government like the charred remains of a devastating fire.

C. M. CADWALLADER.

2836 Murray Drive.

JUST ANOTHER LAKE

I admit I have never seen Buttle lake although I have talked to many people who have been there and have been given the impression it is rather a dismal place hemmed in by a dense forest and mountains with not much outlook—just another lake.

I have spent much of my life in the woods and on lakes and streams on Vancouver Island and love nature as much as anyone and always resent desecration by the hand of man.

Sooke lake and Cowichan lake are two outstanding examples of what can happen in the cause of industry but of vital necessity. The former was converted into a reservoir to feed Victoria. Many people lost their homes but no one cried about it.

I well remember Cowichan lake and the winding road between the virgin forest over which the old stage coach took its passengers from all parts of the world to the River Side hotel or Cowichan Lake hotel three miles up the lake. Now Cowichan lake is an industrial centre with all the beautiful scenery gone.

Now it must be remembered that Buttle lake is not to be removed nor will the mountains be changed. As the lake is raised timber on the edge must be removed but will not be wasted and any bare areas will soon be covered with new growth of all kinds. Everything will be greatly improved as it is in Lower Campbell lake.

Buttle lake has been seen by comparatively few people owing to the fact it is not accessible unless one walks the 10 miles by trail or rides a horse.

If our government goes ahead with this plan a good road will be built in to this beauty spot so that the people will be able to enjoy this part of the park.

It seems to me there is too much politics involved in this matter and silly accusations made which are uncalled for.

The people of B.C. must remember that this part of the country is expanding rapidly in population and industry and we must look ahead for the benefit of all. The extra power we will obtain will not be any too much.

MARKED for READING

SPORTS' THE THING

It is probably a terrible thing to say in the middle of the bustling efficient twentieth century, but the English are better than any other nation in the world at being idle. This may come as a surprise to those who think of England as the birthplace of the Industrial Revolution, of the inventions in steam and steel that changed the world more in a hundred years than it had changed in the previous hundred generations. It may shock those for whom the traditional contrast is between the indolent good-natured Mediterranean man, dozing in the hot sun, and the crisp, business-like northerner bustling about in the keen cold air of a temperate climate.

But the fact is that the English have given more thought to the constructive, happy, relaxed art of doing nothing than anyone else.

—Paul Jennings, English Journalist.

Bliss It Is . . .

WE HAVE THREE fishing legends in our family. Grandfather gave us the first. He came to Victoria early in the century after a youth and middle-age spent angling with all but invisible hooks for non-existent catches in the streams of his native Yorkshire.

Here he heard of phenomenal salmon to be taken just off Brotchie Ledge. With his daughter son-in-law and a friend he went trolling. But Grandfather was unused to row boats and unused to deep salt water. He was used, also, to changing seats when he wanted somebody else to row.

So as Grandfather and his friend tried to swap places, Grandfather lost his balance, made a frantic clutch for his friend and managed to stay in the boat. But in holding his position he brought the neel of his heavy boat down on the planking and the heel went through.

For just a second or two the boat party watched the good, clean salt water fountain up through the ruptured planks. Then a member grabbed the newspaper in which lunch had been wrapped and jammed it in the hole. With that, the party struggled to shore, one rowing, one baling and another saying people shouldn't drive their heels through the bottom of a rowboat.

All of which went to prove the value of a free and courageous press—or at least how useful a newspaper could be in saving life.

"GO THOU, DAUGHTER"

My sister provided the second fishing legend.

In those summer days when we used to have people drop in on us for indeterminate stays and with no warning, my mother found herself temporarily without enough food for dinner and the stores all closed.

"Go," she said to my sister, "and catch us a salmon, about a 10-pound salmon."

My sister went and returned with a 10-pound salmon of her own catching. Which proved that the obedient daughter was not extinct in my generation.

The third legend emerged from a fishing expedition by my father and an uncle. Neither knew much about trolling and far less about the waters around this town.

Still they went out and fished. Other experienced men caught nothing. My father and my uncle returned with 11 salmon—66 pounds of fish in all—and they have photographs for evidence. What that proves, I don't know, "though I've been looking for a moral for the last 35 years."

I have done more fishing than all of them put together. I have not caught fish on demand. I do not return with a boatload when the experts are fishless. Nor do I—as yet at least—drive my heel through bottom planking.

I confess—hoping that my friends will repudiate the confession—that I'm not a very good fisherman. But occasionally—and I say it with complete mock-modesty—I do catch a small one or two.

MORE FISHING THAN FISH

Yet, it's not so much the fish as the fishing on days of near perfection like last Sunday. In the back-eddy behind Trial, sheltered from the run of the tide and lifted only on the rolling swell from a passing steamer, a man could enjoy the benediction that September gives to the passing season. He could breathe air, clean and sharpened with the scent of cold salt water, catch the sun's friendly warmth on his back and know the serenity that comes to a fisherman casually trolling.

There were fish behind Trial, too—enough for a limit of grilse with an occasional salmon to furnish that nerve-tingling excitement that comes from a heavier fish on the line—but not the stuff of legend.

Still the legend isn't necessary. It is sufficient to live such sunlit hours, to see the quick purpose of the black duck's flight line, to watch the wheeling gulls about the schools of minnows, to catch the quick semaphore of turnstones flashing on the beach, to enjoy the full richness of the bright September day when bliss it is to be alive, and to be fishing, very heaven.

LONDON LETTER

Disney's Dogs Popular

LONDON—Walt Disney's new full-length cartoon, "Lady and The Tramp," might have been made specially for the English. You're no doubt familiar with this movie about the cocker spaniel named "Lady" who falls in love with The Tramp, a bulldog, and has friends and acquaintances such as the Scottie with a broad Scottish accent who tells her about "the birds and the bees," the bulldog who keeps saying "Bilney," the bloodhound who has retired from the police because he lost his sense of smell, the philosophizing Russian wolfhound and the heavy-lidded peke.

The reason it is a natural in this country is that it is all about dogs. Londoners have gone crazy about it. You can't go anywhere without hearing people talking about "Lady and The Tramp." The theatre where it is showing, Studio One at Oxford Street, is besieged each day and night.

What is happening is that so many people are captivated by it that they are seeing it around a second time, while the queues outside wait impatiently to get in. Yesterday a friend of mine who passed the theatre said that "the queues stretch to Tottenham Court Road," which is a bit of an exaggeration, but not much.

I should think it will run a year, the dog-loving situation being what it is in England.

Might sound a trifle far-fetched to say such a film will run for a year but such a thing, although hardly common, has happened several times before in London. The heavy-lidded peke.

The reason it is a natural in this country is that it is all about dogs. Londoners have gone crazy about it. You can't go anywhere without hearing people talking about "Lady and The Tramp." The theatre where it is showing, Studio One at Oxford Street, is besieged each day and night.

These English can sit dry-eyed through a Hollywood heroine being parted from her lover or a western hero gasping his last from a blast of buckshot, but for a dog to be run over, that's really tearing at the heart-strings.

There's only one thing wrong with "Lady and The Tramp," from a British point of view. It's a bit dated. It includes all the popular dogs—of former days. Walt Disney doesn't seem to have been told that the poodle now outnumbers all other breeds in these parts. I'm sure if he'd made the heroine a poodle the British would have knighted him.

Chamber Directors Postpone Decision on Buttle Lake

Victoria Chamber of Commerce directors still do not know whether they are for or against the damming of Buttle Lake.

Meeting Monday, the directors declined to endorse a resolution proposed by the chamber's industrial group supporting plans to complete development of the Campbell River watershed.

Instead they voted 164 in favor of delaying action until the October meeting.

A resolution in favor of the development was presented by James McKeachie, chairman of the chamber's industrial group and public relations officer for the B.C. Power Commission.

TIME TO DECIDE

He declared the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island had voted unanimously in favor of it for two years past.

"I think it is time we took a stand," he said.

Opposition was led by former chamber president Stuart Keate, who held that the Upper Campbell project is "economically unsound" and gave figures to support his argument. He denied the movement against damming was led by "dicky bird conservationists."

It was estimated, he said, that the cost of building the Upper Campbell 20 feet higher in order to flood Buttle Lake would be $1.3 million. Grubbing, clearing and logging to British Columbia Power Commission specifications would run to about $8 millions.

Clearing an additional 20 feet on the Upper Campbell basin would cost $1 million, making a total of $10.3 million as the additional cost of flooding Buttle Lake 19 feet above high water.

Eighty million feet at $40 per thousand would realize $3.2 million. After subtracting the $7.1 million net cost of raising Buttle Lake, the cost per kilowatt would be $710—four times more than the cost of the power developed on the Campbell River.

WRECK PARK

"This does not take into consideration the wrecking of Strathcona Park, which competent people have advised has a value of $100 millions."

"I understand that bids on grubbing and clearing open tomorrow (Tuesday). How can any honest contractor bid at any except a fantastic figure—unless he has been assured of some political protection?" he asked.

"We think this is a very

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

SEATTLE, Wash.—Disregarding, for the moment, the men who do the thinking for the Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League, it is the consensus here that: "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring, Tra La," will, to dispute a once popular theorem, have plenty to do with what happens this fall.

The parody being pardoned, we trust, it means simply the making or the breaking of the Cougars through the embryo youngsters sent westward by the parental Boston Bruins (or those who will be dispatched).

Or rather, we might say, let's take this look at the Cougars in two parts:

Today, from those who knew the Cougars as they were last year, and who were Cougars last year.

Tomorrow, from one who is learning fast about the Cougars of today, and who in many tomorrow's, will learn about the League's another embryo-products, coach Eddie Olson.

And so here it is, from and about the players who must play with one another and upon whose success their own livelihood depends:

Marcel Pelletier—Better than he was when he reported to pre-season training a year ago, but who at the moment may not be better than the league's second best goalkeeper he rated last year. Because a defence deficiency still exists.

Bill Davidson—Still the same awkward skater, but probably successful and who needs to equal his best year ever of last season to carry the extra load that may be his to bear.

Bill Dobbyn—A rookie defenceman, whose 190 pounds have been highly effective, and who may add materially in alleviating the aforementioned problem.

Danny Wong. A shy, nervous youngster from Regina who gives the impression that he only needs someone to tell him that he's got the making of a WHL defenceman to earn a starting numeral.

Eddie Olson—Not as intense in his methods as Bill Reay, but solid through and through, and it wouldn't surprise if, by the season's end, he made the fans forget about (or if you like, recall the feats of Roger Leger. And if a club policeman is needed, he could be it.

Reg Belliveau—A "smoothie," easy to play with, and the one performer, who above all others, caught the vacationing eye of Lester Patrick.

Howie Hornby—A centre with some of the touch of Guyle Fielder, and cute enough not to be bothered by his relatively small stature, 155 pounds, with a finesse that belies his limited experience.

Skip Teal—The answer to a "point man" for the club, still 10 or 12 pounds overweight, a take-chance guy he was Harry Wipper's nemesis in lacrosse) with a terrific but sometimes erratic shot and a zeal for bodily contact.

Paul Strasser—Winger with the aggressive hold of Andy Heaton, but not the shot to match.

Art Asleson—As big as they come, and just as hard; too, but at present being overshadowed by his almost equally large contemporary, Dobbyn.

And quickly now, as space permits, history telling most of the story of Wayne Brown, Colin Kilburn, Doug Anderson, Mark Marquess, and Doug Macauley.

Brown figures for 25 goals or more, Kilburn for the same. Macauley should repeat a 20-goal season. Marquess is in fine shape and the best looking winger on the ice, while Anderson needs only to shoot more to be the same Doug Anderson he was a few years ago.

"Ifs, perhaps, but that's the way it must be. All this from the players who know the league best.

Or as goalie Marcel Pelletier says, and will say over and over again:

"It doesn't matter who's in goal, or who gets the goals, no goalkeeper is better than the fellows in front of him."

It may be by now that those who do the thinking have heard from Boston.

Those who don't feel that is one call they would welcome most, and granted that, would take their chances from there.

'Mr. Football' Krol Returning to Argos

TORONTO (CP)—Joe Krol, once halfback and most deceptive runner of the magic man of Canadian football, is back.

Swivel-hipped Joe, called the greatest running halfback in Canadian football when he was only 19 and who was voted second to Lionel Conacher as the outstanding football player of the half-century in a Canadian Press poll, agreed to come out of retirement to do the kicking for Toronto Argonauts. He is 35.

Krol said he will put on his cleats after a year's layoff at the request of Argos team manager Harry Sonshine.

Argos need a kicker. Regular kicker Alex Ponto hasn't been doing well at all. On Saturday his kicks averaged 15 yards shorter than Ottawa's Avatus Stone.

MR. FOOTBALL

Krol's kicking, his passing and his open field running earned his team's six Grey Cup victories in the title "Mr. Football."

He retired midway through the 1933 season with a knee injury. So popular was he with Argos fans that they held a "Joe Krol Day" and gave him a car and other gifts.

"The king of them all," they called him.

Krol began his big-time career with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in 1939. Before that he had a year with Western's intermediate Colts, where he earned acclaim as the greatest man.

Cats Meet Canucks

Victoria Cougars will meet Vancouver Canucks in an exhibition hockey game at Nanaimo, Wednesday, Oct. 5, club managing director Fred Hutchinson announced today.

MIGHTY MAT MITES IN ACTION TONIGHT

The mighty midgets will return to Memorial Arena tonight to lend some pocket-sized action to the weekly professional wrestling show.

Tito Infante, the 83-pounder from Mexico, will tangle with 85-pound Sky Low of Montreal in the 45-minute semi-main event.

The main event, one-hour time limit, will have popular Dr. Timothy Geoghegan meeting newcomer Jim Saskay of Detroit, while in the opener, Victoria's Gordie Gordinello will match holds with rough Harry Levine of Israel.

First bout starts at 8:30.

Want Figures?—Don's Got 'Em

In the single-wing, if the two-back goes through the three-hole, ball out on five with two-on-one blocking . . . these are the sort of things the modern quarterback has to worry about. Don Hendry, quarterback of Oak Bay Drakes, took his problems to the adding machine and he isn't disclosing his answers. Hendry will be leading Drakes Wednesday night when they meet Vancouver Cubs in an exhibition game under the lights at Athletic Park at 8:30. (Times Photo by Strickland.)

Rain Dampens Sandown; Track Times Improved

By CENTAUR

You'll seldom find a race track that is improved by rain; but that's just what happened to Sandown Park the weekend.

Saturday's races were run in dry, dry earth, but all day Sunday the track operators went to work taking a foot of it off. In the wee sma' hours of Monday the rain came and settled down with the result that the surface settled and where 1:19 was good time for the six furlongs Saturday, Monday saw the distance covered in 1:14 by a pacer.

He said, "Well, I've been in Victoria all weekend. Think I'll drop up to Nanaimo for a while and then maybe over to Vancouver and New Westminster. I'm in no hurry to get back to the east.

Next year? Well, I don't know for sure . . ."

COMPARING SERIES RIVALS

Yankees, Dodgers Defensive Toss-Up

(This is the last in a series of three stories comparing the world series rivals.

By NORMAN MILLER, United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Yankees are stronger in left field and Pee-wee Reese gives the Brooklyn Dodgers an edge at shortstop, but aside from those two positions, there is little to choose defensively between the World Series rivals.

Both clubs are strong in the all-important "up-the-middle" positions—catcher, second base combination and centre field.

Each has two or three handy-men who can fill in at more than one job. Both are expert at executing the vital double play.

Hearts fluttered in the second race as a driving field, led by Ardwick Lad turned into what would be the clubhouse turn, then there was a clubhouse. Well in the clear, the Carley gelding's feet slipped from under him and he went down, throwing Jockey J. Ulrich. Both were up on their feet in a few seconds as the entire field swept around them.

Gold Seal and My Reward, both in contention and starting to move had to take up sharply and the race went to Little Pepper, an 11 to 1 shot with Batman second and Lady Able third. The Quinelle paid 20 pence $63.15.

Tommy Fenton won a popular victory in the fifth race with Foreign Frolie, who won from wire to wire under top weight of 120 pounds. He paid his backers $4.60.

Sprint Count and Winged Zephyr combined in that order in the seventh race to chalk up a Quinella of $36.25. The favored Zee Tee was a close third to pay off a surprising $4.30 to show.

Another mutual oddity occurred in the first race when the winner, His Jack, paid more to place and show than the $2.50 he did to win.

Weatherwise, it was a poor day but about 1,000 braved the elements and the customary Monday lethargy betting $22,587.

The track is vastly improved over its condition Saturday and I'd say that unless it rains in torrents you'll see some first class racing before the season is over.

Another mutual oddity occurred in the first race when the winner, His Jack, paid more to place and show than the $2.50 he did to win.

When it came to making double plays this season, the Yankees were tops in both leagues with a total of 180 going into their final two games. Billy Martin is expected to start at second, with Coleman and Gil McDougald also available when Stengel resorts to his extensive line-up juggling.

There is still some doubt about whether Alston will play Gilliam or rookie Don Zimmer at second base. Gilliam has the experience but may be required to play outfield.

Baseball's two leading catchers will be behind the plate in the series. Any attempt to prove Yogi Berra of the Yankees or Roy Campanella of the Dodgers as superior could only produce an endless argument. Both are

Mantle's Leg Gimpy But Yanks Get Odds

Bombers Rate 13-10 Choice Over Brooks

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Carl Furillo rested with a cold and Mickey Mantle tenderly tested his injured right leg Monday as Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees held final workouts in their own parks for Wednesday's World Series opener at Yankee Stadium.

Furillo is expected to be in the opening day lineup at his usual right field spot for the Dodgers but Mantle may not be ready. The final decision on the Yankee center fielder probably won't be made until shortly before game time Wednesday.

"It feels better," said Mantle after swinging away for about 10 minutes at the pitching of coach Frank Crosetti. Batting lefthanded, he smashed one pitch into the second deck in right field. However, he still couldn't run freely. Instead of going to the outfield, he fooled around with a first baseman's mitt, just to limber up.

FAVOR YANKEES

Despite the doubt about Mantle's status, the betting men stretched the odds favoring the Yankees to 13 to 10. The Yanks remained the 6-5 choice in the opener. As for a sweep, you could get 11 to 1 that the Yankees wouldn't do it and 19 to 1 that the Dodgers wouldn't win four straight.

Stengel confirmed his earlier announcement that Whitey Ford (18-7) will work the opener and Tommy Byrne (16-5) the second, on the theory that his lefthanders would be more effective at the stadium than at Brooklyn with its convenient fences for righthanders.

The Dodgers, of course, never have won a series. This will be their eighth try. The Yanks hold the record with a 16-4 record for 20 previous series and five straight winners over Stengel from 1949 through 1953.

Stengel confirmed his earlier announcement that Whitey Ford (18-7) will work the opener and Tommy Byrne (16-5) the second, on the theory that his lefthanders would be more effective at the stadium than at Brooklyn with its convenient fences for righthanders.

Unless he has to use him on in the first two, Stengel probably will start Bob Grim (7-5) in the Ebbets Field opener Friday, following with Bob Larsen (9-2). Grim has been his most efficient pitcher in recent weeks.

LOES FOR SECOND TILT

WALTER ALSTON, Dodger manager, said Billy Loes (10-4) probably will start the second game at New York. He has listed Don Newcombe (20-5) as his opening day pitcher.

Carl Erskine (11-8), another righthander who struck out 14 Yanks for a series record in 1953, probably will work the Friday game with either Johnny Podres (10-10) or Karl Spooner (8-6) probably would be able to come back Sunday with three days rest, provided the best-of-seven series goes to a fifth game. Clem Labine (13-5) and Don Bessent (8-1) will be the relief men.

A sellout crowd of close to 70,000 is due to jam the stadium Wednesday.

ESKS BASH B.C.

Look Astern Lions— Jack Is Watching

THE YARDSTICK

Edmonton 15, Lions 0

By DENNY BOYD

VANCOUVER—While the ominous figure of Indian Jack Jacobs looked on with relish, the B.C. Lions had another piece of their Western Interprovincial Football Union playoff aspirations ground deep into the rich, emerald-green turf of Empire Stadium Monday night.

Lions bumbled and bobbed their way into a desperate position Monday as they blew a 15-0 decision to the cloud-flying Edmonton Eskimos while, at the same time, Winnipeg Blue Bombers were mauling Calgary Stampeders, 25-6.

The two results left Lions miredly digging their nails into third place, the final playoff position in the WIFU, just two points ahead of Bombers.

Jacobs, the former passing wizard of the Bombers, now is their chief scout and his season-long assignment has been attending all Lion games. Bomber brass realizes that the club must beat Lions out for the last playoff seat. Jacobs knows it. That's why he has become as familiar around Empire Stadium as Annie Stukus.

Jacobs was there Monday night, watching and enjoying it all.

Jackie Twisted Lions' Tails

It took just a little over six minutes for Eskimos to start on their 10th straight victory.

Bob Heydenfeldt lofted a high punt into the Lion end zone and Ray Ross managed to wiggle out to his one-yard line, barely avoiding being rouged.

But on the first play from scrimmage, Galiffa dropped the snap, recovered it but fumbled again. Edmonton recovering on the Lion 10-yard line.

The deceptive Parker mimed over left tackle on a keeper play to the five and crashing Normie Kwong took three tacklers for a free ride into the end zone. Bob Dean converted for a 6-0 lead.

Lions bounced right back with Galiffa heaving strikes to another scoring chance.

Pros Don't Do These Things

A strictly high school play by Lions in the same quarter spelled him for an eight-yard loss.

Late in the fourth quarter, Galiffa tried to pass out of his end zone, line-backer Kurt Burris intercepted and Bob Dean casually took a field-goal for the 15-0 score.

Rolle Miles intercepted a Villeneuve pass in his own end zone to stiffle another in the series on Lion threats and Ray Willsey stole another on his goal line as everything ran wrong for Lions.

In the tomb-like Lion dressing-room after the game, someone dropped a sock on the floor. It sounded loud.

At Winnipeg, the rejuvenated Bombers were led by quarterback Buddy Leake, who scored a touchdown, two field goals, three converts and a single. Lorne Benson and Leo Lewis scored the other majors.

In the third quarter, after Galiffa and Adams teamed up on a 65-yard pass-play, Lions had a straight sub-par round Monday to 15. Bob Dean converted for a third heave, Frankie Anderson

BROOK FANS TOLD:

Keep Cool, Don't Goot, No Fights

BROOKLYN (AP)—Praising the Dodgers for giving fans "relief from the exigencies of psychosomatic strain" by clinching the pennant early, chairman Daniel T. Rowe of the Brooklyn Red Cross Chapter Monday called on the fans to exercise self-restraint during the World Series.

In a special World Series bulletin on care and protection of Dodger fans, Rowe outlined basic rules to guard physical and mental health while rooting for Brooklyn.

The rules:

1. Avoid over-excitement. If something goes wrong, don't get all worked up. Remember, there's always another pitcher.

2. Try to remain seated at all times. Jumping up and down leads to sprains, fractures and nasty bruises.

3. Keep your arms to your sides.

4. Keep your head covered. Avoid sunstroke.

5. Don't yell too hard. Moderation will protect you against a dislocated jaw or laryngitis.

6. Do your eating between innings. Thus you can avoid biting your tongue or choking on a piece of frankfurter.

7. No fistcuffs. Yankee rooters are human and entitled to express their opinions of the Dodgers.

8. Don't throw things.

9. Act like ladies and gentlemen. And after the Series is over, celebrate the Brooklyn victory sensibly and soberly.

Seven Leafs To Report To Winnipeg

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP)—Hap Day, general manager of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, said Monday seven Leaf-owned players will report to Winnipeg Warriors, new entry in the Western Hockey League.

The much-publicized line of Barry and Brian Cullen and Hugh Barlow, which sparked St. Catharines Tee Pees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League to the Memorial Cup in 1953-54, will be among those going to Winnipeg for the 1955-56 season.

Ed Chadwick, goalie for Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association last season, Mike Nykoluk and Gary Aldcorn, graduates from Toronto Marlboros of the Junior OHA and Bill Burega, defenceman with the Horrents in 1954-55, will also leave for Winnipeg.

Rangers on Upswing

By CAM MCKENZIE

SASKATOON (CP)—General manager Murray (Muzz) Patrick doesn't visualize a Stanley Cup victory, but he says his New York Rangers are more powerful and much further advanced with their training than they were a year ago.

The Rangers, with a combination of a fiery coach, the return of high-scoring Wally Hergesheimer, a stronger defence and deeper bench strength, should enjoy more success in the National Hockey League this year than in recent seasons, says Patrick. They finished fifth last year.

"We've had a wonderful training camp in Saskatoon," he said. "Our new coach, Phil Watson, who always showed fire in his playing days, seems to have instilled this same spirit with the entire club. I think to the success I think the Rangers will have in the 1955-56 season."

DOES FINE JOB

Watson, who succeeds Patrick as coach, appears to have done a remarkably fine job on the Rangers at the Saskatoon camp. A stickler for condition, he has worked his players hard. They open the season Oct. 7 at Chicago.

The goalkeeping job, last year held by Lorne (Gump) Worsley, is still far from decided with Johnny Bower, who spent the 1954-55 season with Vancouver Canucks of the Western League, putting up a great bid. Either Worsley or Bower will get the regular job with the other one going to Providence on a recall basis.

Mid Houghton, 23-year-old who finished the 1954-55 season with Saskatoon Quakers of the Western League, may be a new addition to the defence.

Lou Fontinato is a certain defence starter and the other four rearguards will come from Harry Howell, Bill Gadsby, Bob Chrystal, Jack Evans, Ivan Irwin and Aldo Guidolin.

Centres Dave Creighton and Bronco Hansen, obtained in an off-season trade with Detroit Red Wings, figure prominently in the Ranger plans. Horvath scored 50 goals for Edmonton in the WHL last year.

STARTS 10TH SEASON

Other centres are Don Raleigh, starting his 10th season with the Rangers, Larry Popkin and Ron Murphy, two sophomores. Murphy can also play wing and may be used as a utility forward.

About the best news the Rangers had at their 1955 training camp came when rightwinger Hergesheimer, kayed with a fractured leg—the same leg at that—in each of the last two years, announced he was fit. A consistent 40-goal man, he scored only four goals before he was sidelined early last season.

Other right wingers are Andy Bathgate, a 20-goal star last year, and big Andy Heberton brought up to the NHL from Victoria 100 goals from his top four scorers—Lewicki, Bathgate, Prentice and Hergesheimer—and an average job from the other forwards it will be sufficient to put the New Yorkers in the playoffs.

The new coach feels Bathgate, Murphy, Prentice and Conacher will come along in 1955-56.

"These boys are good major leaguers," says Watson, "and I think they are on the threshold of blossoming into stars."

MORE BENCH STRENGTH

Added bench strength for the forwards is expected from leftwingers Jean-Guy Gendron, Jim Bartlett and Billy McCreary. Gendron was obtained from Providence of the American League, Bartlett from Chicoutimi of the Quebec League and McCreary is a graduate of Guelph juniors, who finished last season with the Rangers.

Watson's No. 1 forward line may be Creighton, Lewicki and Bathgate. Raleigh has been working between Prentice and Hergesheimer; Horvath between Conacher and Heberton, and Murphy between Gendron and Bartlett with McCreary and Popkin fitting in with all combinations.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Robert Morrison, 1660 Begbie, was fined $35 or five days in jail when he pleaded guilty in city police court today to a careless driving charge.

Court was told Morrison was involved in a head-on collision just west of Johnson Street bridge on Sept. 13.

Police said he lost control of his car and it skidded into the path of an oncoming car. Damages were $800.

Beaverley Wilkison, Victoria, was remanded to Oct. 4 for trial when she pleaded not guilty in city police court today to a charge of assault occasioning bodily harm to another woman on Sept. 17.

Two Victoria youths, Lloyd Moss and Thomas Schultz, were remanded to Oct. 4 for trial when they pleaded not guilty in city police court today to an assault charge.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said a second assault charge arising from another incident the same day, Sept. 17, would be dealt with following conclusion of the trial.

Mrs. Paterson elected to serve the three-day jail term.

RCMP said her car turned over after swerving at a corner to avoid colliding with a motorcyclist Sept. 10 on Sooke Road.

Eddie Weds Debbie in Lodge Where He Got Singing Start

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI)—night at this Catskill mountain resort where Fisher began his marriage. Singer Eddie Fisher, despite all the reports he wouldn't, married actress Debbie Reynolds and they are honeymooning today at an undisclosed spot.

The year-old romance between the bobby-sox idol and the young sly, and she breathed a sigh that actress reached its climax last was plainly audible to the three

For Fisher, 27, and his 23-year-old starlet bride, it was their first marriage. And for the honey-blond actress, she said she hoped it would be her last. Asked if she planned to raise a family Debbie replied demurely:

"Doesn't everyone plan to have a family, eventually?"

Labor Fights Right-to-Work Proposal

Right-to-work legislation in B.C. would be vehemently opposed by local organized labor, three Victoria unionists said at the week-end.

Two resolutions passed by B.C. Chamber of Commerce called for legislation to prevent sympathy picketing and to gain a right-to-work bill, were called unnecessary and unwarranted by the labor officials.

"Reactionary and unwarranted," vice-president of B.C. Trades Union Congress Victor Midgley said of the move.

"Right-to-work laws do not give any right to work at all, merely give the employer a chance to weaken bargaining through hiring workers at lower wages."

DIVIDE WORKERS

Cliff Parker, secretary-treasurer of Vancouver Island Building and Construction Trades Council, said "right-to-work laws are a means of dividing the working people."

He added: "Picketing is already controlled by legislation. If our methods are at fault, we are the people involved and we should be the ones to make changes."

E. T. Staley, executive secretary-treasurer of B.C. Provincial Council of Carpenters, said, "Right-to-work laws have no place here or anywhere else in Canada. They are the curse of organized labor."

Mr. Parker advised a close look at the proposed legislation.

"Until we know what is meant, we are not in a very good position for comment."

Victoria West Has New Plans For Play Centre

Discussion of the future development of Banfield Park and the community hall will take place Thursday evening when the Victoria West Community Centre Association holds a public meeting.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the community centre building, Catherine and Edward.

Invitations to attend have been mailed to residents of the area, and the executive has asked especially for the attendance of parents and relatives of the cubs, scouts and girl guide units which use the facilities of the hall.

Trustees Favor Local Control

QUALICUM BEACH, (CP) — Omy is being crushed by Victoria. The B.C. School Trustees Association, fearing breakdown in the present trustee system, will ask the provincial government for more control over their own affairs.

DUNCAN (CP) — Construction of the B.C. Electric overhead cable from Salt Spring Island to Maple Bay will be protested by the Duncan-Cowichan chamber of commerce, which received notification from the department of transport that the high tension line would be built across Sansum narrows. Chamber president Joseph E. Garner, himself a flier, said planes in the Seattle-Alaska route in bad weather fly "on the beam" through Sansum narrows and frequently fly at the 500-foot level, right into the path of the high tension line.

Cartoon Strips Objectionable Says PTA Body

Two fictional detectives, Kerry Drake and Dick Tracy, who adventure daily in the pages of local newspapers, were assailed by delegates to Victoria and District PTA council Monday night.

The two cartoon strips were called objectionable because of the violence contained in the sequences.

Mrs. A. Gray, chairman of the Craigflower PTA and council delegate, said each delegate will take the matter back to district groups for discussion and report.

Recently Drake's current villain was shown attempting to drown an elderly man in a bath tub, while Tracy's men uncovered a cadaver in a cement wall.

The sequences were not considered proper reading for impressionable youngsters.

Mrs. I-didn't-know

When Mrs. Ellis lost her husband, she was faced with so many complex problems she didn't know which way to turn.

Jim had planned the future with her—in conversation—and he had promised: "I'll see that everything is put in writing." There were days of anxiety searching for a Will. No Will was found, and the plans she and her husband had talked about vanished into thin air.

Alarmed, she hurried to Jim's lawyer. He explained: "Your husband left no Will, Mrs. Ellis. Now the Law must take over. The Law is made to meet average situations. It has to be rigid and cannot be varied to meet your wishes, or your needs. I'm afraid that Succession Duties will be substantial, even more than the amount coming from life insurance. It will take very careful planning to safeguard Jim's business while providing for payment of the duties."

Mrs. Ellis bit her lip. "Whatever shall I do?"

Salmon Pack Overcomes Slow Start

British Columbia's canned salmon pack, which in the early part of the current season had made a poor showing, has now reached a volume total which will place it in the category of a good average yearly production, according to A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries.

The way things work," he said, controls are increasing.

Mr. Rogers said all capital expenditure must be approved, operating budgets are subject to detailed inspection, debt is controlled and appointment of officials and supervisors are controlled.

He also said debenture issues are regulated and expenditure of money raised by bonds is checked.

"School boards are becoming rubber stamps," he charged.

Chilliwack trustee Arthur Rundle claimed trustees know better what is required in their districts than do officials in Victoria.

He said it would be difficult to interest ratepayers in becoming trustees if that control was not given.

Earlier, Education Minister Wilton told the convention the government had no intention of taking away the powers of school boards.

He said the government "wants to be able to supply money to you" and leave the spending to the local boards.

J. F. K. English, assistant deputy minister of education, said the department was developing the new financing formula and working on pupil transportation and teacher training. He described the education department as a partner of the trustees.

President R. H. Reeve of Victoria, in his annual report, emphasized value of the teacher placement service operated by the BCSTA and B.C. Teachers' Federation which last year had a total registration of 977 teachers.

Mr. Reeve said co-operation between district boards, branch groups and the central office in salary negotiations was increasing and this co-operation would be most important in dealing with a highly contentious problem. He called for "much clearer understanding and attitude" of the department of education when dealing with salary negotiations.

An evening reception and banquet were held at Port Alberni Golf and Country Club.

PORT ALBERNI — Up-island members of the Vancouver Island Chartered Accountants Club were hosts to members from Victoria, Nanaimo and Duncan at a social gathering here on the weekend.

A Saturday afternoon golf tournament was won by Peter Taylor of Victoria. Non-golfers visited Stamp Falls and the Alberni Valley Zoo operated by Paul Hertel, and their wives were taken for a cruise on the Alberni Canal.

It will be the first to be held in the district. No entry fees are planned.

"It will give local hobbyists an opportunity to display their talents and pick up new ideas," said director Herb Wilson, who originated the idea.

Public Apathy Blamed for Park Destruction

Current trend of governments of expropriating public parks for other uses "because it is expedient at the moment," was condemned today by John A. Livingston of Toronto, executive director of the Audubon Society of Canada.

The Butte Lake controversy is no exception, he said. The trend of senior governments and municipal councils taking over public parks for industrial use and real estate was common throughout North America.

Never Recovered

"This policy is disastrous," he said. "A park can never be recovered once it is sold or used for other purposes."

The young executive official of Canada's largest conservation organization arrived here Monday to organize a branch of the society in Victoria.

While Mr. Livingston said he was not fully informed of the Butte Lake issue, it appeared to him to be the same old story of a government wanting to make use of a public park for power because it was "more economical than moving to another site."

"Mind you it may be initially more economical to make use of a public park for power, but in the long run it is more expensive," he said. "This has proven to be so, time and time again and yet it goes on and on."

Mr. Livingston said the expropriation and sale of public lands by governments and municipal councils was going on unchecked because the public did not yet have the knowledge or appreciation of nature and the outdoors.

"A large section of the public doesn't care because it hasn't the knowledge," he stated.

Condemning governments for the arbitrary way they deal with parks, Mr. Livingston said it frequently happened that land is sold in a "hush hush" manner and the public only informed of the matter when it is too late to take action.

Little Protection

Public parks throughout Canada have little legal protection from commercial and industrial encroachment, he said. A park could be expropriated for other uses overnight by an order-in-council without the approval of the citizens.

He felt the answer to the problem was a program of education.

Mr. Livingston said Ontario conservationists managed to save Algonquin Park from commercialization only through a bitter and hard-fought struggle. The government was leasing the land in the park for commercial use until two years ago when action was taken to stop the practice, he said.

"Now all licences are being cancelled," he said. "And we have a park."

Keen Outdoor Man

A graduate of the University of Toronto, Mr. Livingston, a former advertising executive, was appointed an executive director of the society in July. He is a keen outdoorsman and a member of the Ontario Federation of Naturalists.

Society officials included some leading Canadians, such as Gregory Clark, well-known writer and newspaperman. The society co-operates closely with the Audubon Society of the United States which has saved from destruction some of the finest recreational areas in that country.

WIRING INSPECTOR

Mr. Wilson enlisted on the outbreak of the First World War, and served four years with the engineers. After his discharge he spent four years in Calgary, then returned to Victoria as city wiring inspector.

He became foreman of the Victoria Daily Times engraving department in 1926, and supervised establishment of the firm of Capital Engravers in the Victoria Press Ltd. building in 1951.

During his more than 30 years as a Mason he was past master and secretary of Vancouver and Quadra Lodge No. 2; past first principal and treasurer of Victoria Columbia Chapter No. 1, Holy Royal Arch; and district deputy grand master.

Surviving are his widow at home, 1363 Hillside, and a daughter, Mrs. C. R. Porter, 5165 Cordova Bay.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Electricity Sparks Growth In B.C.—Arnott

An abundance of low cost electricity is inspiring new B.C. industry with the result the province can now rely on varied sources of income rather than a few, E. W. Arnott, vice-president, B.C. Electric Co. Ltd., told the Pacific zone meeting of the National Association of Electrical Distributors here today.

In appearance today he's no Hercules, but Mr. Arnott's voice shows spirit when he recalls hoisting kegs of nails "four deep and they cost $6.50 a keg in the old days."

The present Mrs. Arnott, 85, is his second wife, and he is her second husband. Both previous spouses died 22 years ago. The couple were wed 16 years ago in Vancouver.

"I've had two of the best women in the world," said Mr. Arnott, twirling his mustache thoughtfully, a smile lighting his features.

90-Year-Old's Birthday Is Tobaccoless

It's the tobacco that counts with Andrew Agnew, 114 Howe, 90-year-old veteran of the Riel Rebellion of 1885.

Today's his birthday. But the sore point with Mr. Agnew is he can't smoke.

He waxed eloquent today on the delight of tobacco, thin hands moving, as he said: "I wish, I really wish; I could have a smoke now." The doctor forbade the mustached ex-soldier to puff after Mr. Agnew suffered a heart attack five years ago.

"Why, I'd smoked since I was 16," he said in an exasperated, if slightly quavering voice. "A plug, but a big one, a week."

Before retiring 20 years ago, Mr. Agnew was a hardware merchant in Saskatoon and Prince Albert; from where "I started the hardware business from the ground up." Guernsey Island born, his father was in the hardware or "ironmonger" business before him.

In appearance today he's no Hercules, but Mr. Agnew's voice shows spirit when he recalls hoisting kegs of nails "four deep and they cost $6.50 a keg in the old days."

The present Mrs. Agnew, 85, is his second wife, and he is her second husband. Both previous spouses died 22 years ago. The couple were wed 16 years ago in Vancouver.

Battle Looming For Young Minds

CCF Seeks to Offset Profit System Booklet

A conflict of economic ideologies—free enterprise versus socialism—is shaping on the doorsteps of Greater Victoria high schools.

Objectives in the tug-of-war are graduating students. Right in the middle is the Greater Victoria School Board.

The trustees are caught between separate campaigns planned by the Chamber of Commerce and two district CCF organizations.

The struggle was touched off by a little-publicized item of school board business at its last regular meeting Sept. 19.

At that time the board approved a Chamber of Commerce request to issue to all graduates of district high schools a copy of a booklet, "What About Profits?"

A resolution also was passed by the group, "that this organization write to the council of public instruction (a legislative committee headed by Premier W. A. C. Bennett) asking if the Greater Victoria School Board has the legal right to distribute such partisan literature to the students."

At that time the board approved a Chamber of Commerce request to issue to all graduates of district high schools a copy of a booklet, "What About Profits?"

The decision to permit the distribution at the schools was a reversal of a decision of a year ago. At that time the trustees felt other systems of society might be similarly introduced once the door was opened.

Monday night, both Saanich and Victoria-Oak Bay CCF groups took action aimed at winning the same privilege.

The Saanich CCF group set up a committee which will decide upon a suitable pamphlet. When that decision is reached, the group will ask the school board to permit its distribution to the students also.

Victoria-Oak Bay Club sent a letter to the school board and the minister of education.

It proposes that the privilege

Citizenship Examinations To Be Tougher

English or French Knowledge 'Must'

Victoria's Citizens' Court is going to tighten up its citizenship examinations for immigrants.

Judge J. B. Clearihue warned today that unless new Canadians can show proof they know either English or French—Canada's two official languages—they won't obtain their naturalization certificates.

There are several hundred new Canadians in Victoria who will be applying for citizenship papers within the next two years.

DON'T COMPLY

The reason for imposing more stringent examinations, the judge said, is because too many new Canadians in the past have asked for naturalization papers without having the necessary qualifications for citizenship, laid down under the Canadian Citizenship Act.

"The law requires an applicant for citizenship to know either the English or French language and a knowledge of Canadian citizenship," he said.

"Canadian citizenship means having a knowledge of Canadian history, geography, history and social customs," he said.

The judge urged immigrants to take a course in English or French—at a night school or through a correspondence course provided by the department of education. At the end of the course, he said, the immigrants will receive certificates stating they have a knowledge of English.

"In future, when an applicant comes before the court to be examined in English or French, he will be asked to produce a certificate that he knows English or French," said Judge Clearihue. "This is a necessary qualification under the act."

Jacob Stobart Funeral Service Here Wednesday

Funeral service for Jacob Stobart, who died suddenly Sunday at the Salvation Army Citadel, Esquimalt, will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday at McCall Bros. Chapel with a 4 p.m. graveside service at Nanaimo.

Mr. Stobart, 82, had been a Salvation Army member for 60 years, and was an officer with the corps in England.

Born in County Durham, he married there and his wife predeceased him some years ago.

He was a mine supervisor at Nanaimo for several years, and lived both there and in Victoria during the last 50 years.

He retired in 1940, but was active here in Salvation Army services during the Second World War.

Mr. Stobart was president of the Old Age Pensions' Association, unit No. 3, in Victoria at the time of his death.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. R. Russell and Mrs. Fred Higgins of Victoria; three sons, James W. of New Westminster, and Jacob and John of Victoria; also 11 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Officiating at the funeral service will be Major C. J. Milley and Senior Capt. Cyril Frayn.

Fine of $15 or three days in jail was imposed on Inca Bell, 22, Leigh Food, when convicted in Esquimalt police court Monday on a charge of exceeding a 30 mph speed limit Aug. 25 on Craigflower.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Is the poll tax, which was mentioned in Ask The Times last week, collected in all cities in B.C.?—D.T.G.

A.—No. In 1954, 18 of the cities in the province raised revenue from the poll tax, 20 districts did likewise, and 8 villages, making a total of 46 municipalities. In 1953, 4 villages abandoned the poll tax and 2 villages established the tax. In 1952, 30 municipalities started the poll tax and 18 abandoned it. In all B.C. municipalities having the poll tax every man of 21 years or over who is not a property owner and has been a resident in B.C. at least one month is liable to the $5 poll tax.

Q.—How long has Canada had the Bureau of Statistics?—T.L.

A.—It was established under the Statistics Act of 1918.

Answers, which will be sent the previous week, will be published in "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of general interest. The Times reserves the right to edit and shorten.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

Yesterday I had the honor of meeting the only full admiral in the Canadian Navy.

He is Admiral Sir Archibald Cecil Aubrey Snavely, who returned in the destroyer Sioux Saturday after 40,000 arduous miles in the Far East.

Admiral Snavely, who has the tactfulness inbred during his early years of service with the Royal Navy, prior to joining the RCN, has very little to say.

Yet it is inspiring simply to be in his presence, even if he says not a word.

Reflect, for a moment, on his record, as attested to by Cmdr. A. H. Ranking, until yesterday captain of the Sioux, and Lt.-Cmdr. Frank Barracly, executive officer.

Admiral Snavely started his meteoric career in the Royal Navy by advancing from cadet to midshipman to acting sub-lieutenant to sub-lieutenant to full lieutenant in something less than 20 years, give or take a year or two.

The story of his even more meteoric rise in the Canadian Navy, after he left the Royal Navy for reasons best known to himself and the QRO, is even more startling.

Entering as a lieutenant-commander, it quickly became evident he was of no use as a two-and-a-half, so they made him a commander. Equally useless in that rank, he was made a captain within days; and he was promoted to full admiral in the Royal Navy for reasons best known to himself and the QRO, is even more startling.

Those who don't know him well consider the Admiral a rum sort of bloke. (So do those who know him well—I said he was a "full" Admiral, didn't I?)

But none will quarrel with his statement when he was asked if he were going to retire.

"Who, me?" he is reported to have said. "Not blinkin' likely. I never had it so good."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Fascinating Figured Felt Is the Fabric for Fashion

By PENNY SAVER

Forgive me, but I've begun to think in terms of Christmas. Not, so much the flurry and bustle of shopping, but the thrill and gaiety of seasonal fun and parties and the vivaciousness of winter fashions. I've been shot off on this tangent by the sight of some new fabrics in town. One of the most fascinating is figured felt. You see it everywhere now. What once was used mainly as floor covering and as silencer rugs has come a long way in the last few years. Felt is one of the first words in fashion now.

The new arrival I saw today is made of a lightweight felt, in either white or black, sprayed in a curved or feathered design of glittering silver and gold thread. I can picture this material in a stunning cocktail dress, or full-skirted dress for dancing. Still in evidence and growing more and more in demand, are two-piece evening ensembles. This material would be perfect for a wide, be-crinkled skirt, topped with either a matching white or black wool jersey evening blouse. This 36-inch wide material is $5.50 a yard.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy anything mentioned in these columns.

Prime Minister's Letter Commends BPW Federation

Eighty members and friends of the scholarship committee of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club who attended a supper meeting in the clubroom Monday evening heard a message from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Sent to all BPW clubs across Canada on the eve of Business Women's Week, Sept. 25 to Oct. 1, the Prime Minister's letter, read by club president Mrs. Marguerite Lauglin, paid tribute to the business women of Canada.

"When future historians write their judgment of the present period of human evolution," the letter read, "I am sure they will draw attention to the fact that it was during these years that women throughout the world won acceptance of their ability to carry out professional and executive duties efficiently and responsibly."

The Prime Minister wrote that in the past 25 years, he felt that members of Canadian Federation of BPW Clubs have contributed very largely to this result in Canada and have made a substantial contribution to the national development.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Hazel Laycock, national president, commanding Business Women's Week.

During the evening the club's Bay Wigley Memorial Scholarship winner, Miss Barbara Salonen, was introduced to the club and presented with a corsage by Miss Margaret Clay, chairman.

Bouffant Gown of Tulle Worn by Miss McConnell

Baskets of autumn flowers best man, and Rex McConnell, brother of the bride; and Robert Wallace as ushers.

Basil Wright proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Lougheed's Banquet Club. A three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table, and autumn flowers decorated the hall.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to San Antonio, Tex., the bride wore a charcoal grey suit with red accessories and a corsage of American Beauty rosebuds.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. McConnell, Creston, B.C., was given in marriage by her father. She chose a bouffant gown of nylon tulle over satin with ballerina-length skirt and fitted bodice shirred from the waist to the draped scoop neckline. Her shoulder-length veil was caught to a pearl brooch. Gardenias and red rosebuds topped the white prayer book she carried.

Revel beauty red panglaze gowns in ballerina-length were worn by matron of honor, Mrs. V. McCloy, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid, Miss Helen Talbot. Stoles, gloves and headbands in tone and colonial bouquets of gladioli, carnations and chrysanthemums completed their ensembles.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Neil, RR No. 1, Metchosin, had Chuck Gordon as best man. Rex McConnell, president, welcomed guests and tea pourers for the afternoon were Mrs. J. B. Acland, Dr. Mrs. C. Springfield and Mrs. A. Francis.

Mrs. J. Green was at the door and Mrs. A. M. Brown was in charge of the contest, winners being Mrs. E. MacMillan, Mrs. A. W. Barber and Mrs. J. W. Catto. Miss M. Motherwell and Mrs. D. A. Lowther handled kitchen and assisting in the dining room were Mrs. W. H. Bradley, Mrs. E. Greenough, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. G. Bullock and Miss Anne Miller.

Ruth Chapter, No. 22, Order of the Eastern Star, coffee party, Thursday, 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR TENDERS

Sealed tenders in triplicate addressed to the Government of Canada, "Tender for Greenhouse Construction at Saanichton, B.C.", will be received until 12 o'clock noon, October 19, 1955. Plans and specifications may be seen and forms of tender obtained at Dominion Experimental Farm, Saanichton, B.C.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on or according to these forms, and in accordance with the conditions set out therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by a deposit in the form of a certified cheque or bank draft in Canada payable to the Receiver General of Canada, or bearer bonds as specified in the form of tender, to the amount of 10 per cent of the tender. The deposit of the successful tenderer will be retained as security until the work is completed and the payment of other tenders will be returned upon the awarding of the contract.

Plans and specifications of the work will be supplied on deposit of $10.00. Upon the surrender of the plans and specifications, in good condition, within 30 days of the award of tenders, this deposit will be returned. After 30 days, the deposit will be subject to forfeiture. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

'Mr. QOR' Visits City To Check on His Boys

Toronto's 'Bap' Johnston Associated
With Famed Regiment for 47 Years

By AB KENT

"Mr. Queen's Own Rifles," stocky, active, cheerful man known as "Bap" Johnston, is in town visiting part of his regiment.

Honorary Lieut.-Col. Baptist Johnston, OBE, VD, 69, Queen's Printer for Ontario, has been associated in one way or another with the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada 47 years, giving him a strong desire to keep up with regimental affairs whenever and wherever possible.

Here for a week, the former Toronto banker and stock broker is visiting the Second Battalion (PF) Queen's Own Rifles at Camp Gordon Head before moving on to Calgary where the First Battalion is stationed, and later to QOR Depot, Edmonton.

Gordon Head commanding officer Lieut.-Col. W. H. V. Matthews says, "Bap knows more than anyone about the Queen's Own."

TELLS ANECDOTES

Last week in the officers' mess he kept the luncheon table amused for two hours with regimental anecdotes and the origin and history of the surnames, to which he has delved deeply for many years.

His genealogical studies have shown him, for instance, his family has used the Christian name "Baptist" in every generation for more than 300 years, perhaps longer, although he denies relationship to John the Baptist and Salome.

To illustrate how easily names are formed he mentioned that long ago the fact a man had a short nose could be carried with him through posterity. The French would call him Courtnez, hence the English Courteney.

Quite willing to talk about himself, but preferring to be quoted on the QOR's rather than the Scottish border family of Johnstons, the citizen-soldier allows him a greater travels, for one thing, than would be possible if he had a family.

VICTORIA BOOSTER

He has been to Ireland, where many of his family settled in Ulster prior to 1650, a total of seven times. This is his third trip to Victoria since 1952, and about the city he feels:

"It's a gorgeous place. When I'm around 90 I would like to settle down in this pleasant and colorful city."

But he has not yet had enough of the smoke, noise and

LIEUT.-COL. JOHNSTON
"Bap" for short

hectic pace of Toronto to consider retirement.

Besides, he feels far too young to retire.

The native of Guelph, Ont., joined the QOR's militia in 1908 as a rifleman, was commissioned in 1909, left for active service with the regiment in August 1914 and was taken prisoner during the German gas attack at St. Julien in April 1915. He spent the next three and a half years in Germany and Holland.

From 1922-28 he commanded the First Battalion of QOR's and from 1940-45 was CO of the Second (Reserve) Battalion in Toronto.

Besides being traveller, genealogist, soldier, ex-financier, historian, civil servant and former sportsman ("I've played everything but lacrosse"), Baptist Johnston has been aide-de-camp to Ontario Lieutenant-governors for 30 years.

Canadian Champ Carves Out Win

HALIFAX, N.S. (BUP)—Canadian lightweight champion Dick Howard bounced back to form Monday night when he carved out a unanimous round decision over Basil Marie of Philadelphia.

Some 2,800 fans saw the local favorite dominate the fight from the start.

Howard had the Pennsylvania lightweight champ staggering several times in the last round. He rocked Marie with some hard punches in earlier rounds but there were no knockdowns.

It was one of Howard's best fights since he won the Canadian title from Armand Savoie of Montreal a year ago. It also revenged a TKO Marie scored over him when they last met in Halifax two months ago.

FLUORIDATION WINS SUPPORT OF COUNCIL

NANAIMO—A motion favoring amendment of the Greater Nanaimo water bylaw to permit fluoridation of the city and district water supply, passed in city council here Monday night.

Council acted on a recommendation of the waterworks committee that the water board may fluoridate the water supply with the consent of other communities in the district.

French Lose in Algeria

Boycott by
Moslems Dooms
Faure Plan

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Bitter fighting and strong opposition from Moslem Assemblymen virtually doomed France's plans for integrating Algeria today.

The Moslem majority of the Algerian assembly rejected as a total failure France's proposal for integration. The Moslems threatened to boycott tonight's opening session of the assembly.

Throughout the North African territory, rebels stirred up more trouble. An estimated 80 insurgents were slain in the last 24 hours during a massive anti-rebel drive by French troops.

SECESSION CALL

The action of the Moslem assemblymen amounted to a virtual call for secession because Algeria is constitutionally an indivisible part of metropolitan France.

Informed sources said Governor-General Jacques Soustelle would resign if the delegates carried out their threat to walk out of tonight's consultative chamber.

PLAN "OUTDATED"

The motion denouncing integration said the plan, stated in a 1947 statute, was "outdated." The Moslems approved it only 48 hours after Premier Edgar Faure broadcast an appeal re-affirming France's determination for integration.

Meanwhile, clean-up operations continued throughout the Constantinople department in North Algeria.

A mobile column from neighboring Tunisia killed an estimated 50 rebels in a sweep through the rugged mountain country. Infantry units reported slaying 24 in clashes near Montcalm. One soldier was killed and five wounded.

END OF FAURE?

Right-wing elements in the French government hope that the North African crisis will lead to the downfall of Faure's cabinet. They figure that the new government will shelve all liberal reforms and maintain order by force of arms. They believe concessions will lead to the loss of Algeria.

'JANET' LEAVES 200 DEAD

Two Canadians Lost In Hurricane Plane

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Caribbean's waters, whipped to a white frenzy by hurricane Janet, were being searched by plane and ship today for a hurricane hunter aircraft missing on a storm mission with 11 men on board, including two Canadian newspaper men.

Janet, stepping up her forward pace to about 20 miles an hour and bearing down on Swan Island, a little U.S.-owned group off the Honduras coast, was moving out of the area of search but the seas remained rough. Janet shifted her course during

Rough Seas Rebuff Flo On Third Try

DOVER, Eng. (AP)—Florence Chadwick was defeated by rough water early today in her third attempt of the year to swim the English Channel.

The 35-year-old California swimmer, who had beaten the channel three times in previous seasons, stuck it out until 4 a.m. (8 p.m. Monday PST) hoping to make an England-to-France-and-crossing. She was lifted into the escort boat when freshening winds made it obvious that she could not carry on.

Her two previous attempts this summer ended before she reached the French coast.

She was 7½ miles out when her handlers decided to call it quits.

Ike Recovery Aids Wall St.

Shares Soar After $13 Billion
Tumble Sparked by Eisenhower Illness

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

NEW YORK—Bargain hunters swamped Wall Street today as news of President Eisenhower's continued good progress lifted the nation from the gloom of Saturday's heart attack.

In a backlash to Monday's stock market tumble, share prices recovered much of the $13,000,000,000 lost from stocks lists on New York.

At Toronto nearly a fifth of Monday's 17-point decline was regained in first-hour trading. (Details of stock market action will be found on Page 7.)

From the President's sickbed in Denver, Colo., doctors reported Mr. Eisenhower had a "very good night" and slept almost continuously for more than 10 hours.

MONTH IN HOSPITAL

The President is able to leave the oxygen tent for as much as 30 minutes at a time. But his doctors say they have advised him to remain in the hospital for about a month.

Mrs. Eisenhower, who has been provided a suite of rooms in the hospital, visits him frequently.

Their son, Major John Eisenhower, planned to return to his army post at Fort Belvoir, Va., today.

NIXON TAKES OVER

Meanwhile Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has begun his new role as unofficial "acting president." He conferred today with the government's top financial officers and Republican party leaders.

Mr. Nixon will preside over the scheduled cabinet meeting Friday, and over the National Security Council's weekly meeting Thursday.

Earlier plans for immediate legal action to delegate some Presidential powers to the vice-president have been shelved.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell Jr., who cut short his Europe vacation to fly back to Washington, told reporters there now "is no necessity for action today."

Responsible government officials scoff at reports the President might consider resigning because of his illness.

But most leading newspapers agree he probably won't run in 1956.

BROTHER PROPOSED

The Chicago Sun-Times varied the usual pattern by suggesting to the Republicans they "do well" to choose Milton S. Eisenhower, the President's brother.

And through all the editorial comments, regardless of political affiliation, ran the thought voiced by Milwaukee Journal: "the most important thing is that President Eisenhower get well."

WIRE BRIEFS

Arsonist Busy?

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Two minor fires in Vancouver Monday afternoon may have been set by an arsonist, police and fire wardens said today.

Drug Smugglers Caught

CAIRO (UPI)—Camel-riding Frontier corsairs chased a band of smugglers across the desert almost to the gates of Cairo and seized a multi-million-dollar haul of narcotics in a gun battle to day.

Typhoon Nears Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Typhoon Louise, the year's most violent storm in the Pacific, boomed steadily toward Japan today as air force technicians worked to repair the U.S. base on Iwo Jima, flattened by the storm Sunday.

Operation Lifesaver

CALGARY (CP)—Civil defence planners are optimistic today that Operation Lifesaver, the mass evacuation of the northeast section of Calgary, will be carried out Wednesday as planned.

Reverend Blocked

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—A referendum on fluoridation of the city's water supply, suggested by Ald. Bob Fawdry at Monday's city council meeting, was blocked because it is not authorized under the Municipal Act.

INITIATED HERE

Mr. Fawdry, who initiated the injunction proceedings, said Mrs. Moore is appearing as co-plaintiff "strictly on the advice of my counsel."

He said that Mrs. Moore holds a mineral claim in the affected area on Buttle Lake, and that he was proud to be associated with a member of the Reid family, with its long history of conservation.

BOR STATEMENT

Meanwhile, Thomas Ingledow, vice-president and executive engineer of the B.C. Electric Co., issued a statement today supporting the development of power through the Upper Campbell Lake dam.

"I am satisfied that the water rights branch of the department of lands and forests, and the provincial government, fully assessed the value of all factors when authorization was given to impound the waters of Buttle lake for power purposes," said Mr. Ingledow.

Mr. Ingledow said that if the "renewed effort by a certain group to further oppose the utilization of the waters of Buttle lake" is succeeded to "a critical reduction in power output would result."

UNREALISTIC

Mr. Ingledow said that statements to the effect that hydroelectric developments on the Island and on the mainland, should be held back because of developments in atomic energy, "are most unrealistic."

He said "it will be many years before electricity produced by nuclear energy will be available in large quantities and at a price competitive with or even approaching our present low cost of electricity produced by water power."

Vigil to End?

Penguin Matilda may become a mother—or a father—today. Matilda is a king penguin who for more than seven weeks has been patiently cuddling an egg at Vancouver's Stanley Park Zoo. But all anyone knows at the zoo Matilda could easily be a he. Curator Alan Best says the egg should hatch today and if a penguin emerges it will be the second born in captivity in North America.

UNCLE ZEKE AT THE RACES

Hey, Vic, I Cashed for $5.30

Stake was $50; now $49.30. Well, things look a little better moneywise, if not weatherwise today. Cashed my place ticket on Doc Darbyshire's Brotchie and collected $53.00.

So I feel I'm starting to hit my stride. I've still got $49.30 out of my original $50 and feel I can afford a $2.00 win bet. There are a lot of maidens running today. That don't mean young lady horses but nags that never managed to win. Those I'm going to leave.

Doctor Sent-Sinclair Off To Hospital

VANCOUVER (CP)—A family friend and physician who "just happened" to be at the railway station Sunday night is the reason Fisheries Minister Sinclair is not en route to Ottawa today.

Dr. G. A. McLaughlin, at the urging of Mrs. Kathleen Sinclair, dropped in at the station as Mr. Sinclair was preparing to leave to report to Prime Minister St. Laurent on his recent Russian tour.

After the initial greetings were over, Dr. McLaughlin ordered Mr. Sinclair to hospital.

Dr. McLaughlin, who said that there was "nothing emergent," said it will take three or four days of examination before doctors will determine when Mr. Sinclair is ready for travel.

No anxiety about his health is felt but lack of medical records of Russian treatment is one reason doctors will thoroughly examine Mr. Sinclair.

FINAL BULLETINS

Chrome Deposit Found in B.C. North

VANCOUVER (CP)—Discovery in northern British Columbia of a major chrome deposit "of tremendous importance" was reported today by the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines.

Tom Elliot, Chamber of Mines secretary, said the discovery was reported to him by five prospectors who returned here from a three-month expedition in the Jennings Lake area, about 40 miles south of the Yukon border.

Hume Calls for Fluoridation Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—Major Hume of Vancouver said today he is opposed to fluoridation and called for a plebiscite to settle the issue.

Mysterious Object Sparks Air Search

VANCOUVER (CP)—A sea and air search for a possible crashed plane off northern Vancouver Island was launched today by the RCAF after a mysterious object was sighted on British Columbia's secret coast radar network.

The object was picked up as a blip on the radar screens late Monday, RCAF officials said. It was apparently a plane and because it was unidentified, a CF-100 jet fighter scrambled into the air to intercept it.

But while the jet hurtled towards it, the object vanished abruptly from the radar screen.

Armstrong Man Heads Trustees

QUALICUM BEACH, B.C. (CP)—Leonard Wood of Armstrong, B.C., today was elected president for 1955-56 of the B.C. School Trustees' Association.

Vancouver Football Fans Slapped

VANCOUVER (CP)—The sportsmanship of Vancouver football fans was questioned in an interview here Monday by Jackie Parker and Frank (Pop) Ivy of the Edmonton Eskimos.

"That's the world's worst," said Parker, speaking of the boozing of B.C. quarterback Arnie Galiffa by some of the 24,341 fans.

Ike Recovery Aids Wall St.

(Compiled From AP and UP Dispatches)

NEW YORK—Bargain hunters swamped Wall Street today as news of President Eisenhower's continued good progress lifted the nation from the gloom of Saturday's heart attack.

French Lose in Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Bitter fighting and strong opposition from Moslem Assembly virtually doomed France's plans for integrating Algeria today.

The Moslem majority of the Algerian assembly rejected as a total failure France's proposal for integration. The Moslems threatened to boycott tonight's opening session of the assembly.

Throughout the North African territory, rebels stirred up more trouble. An estimated 80 insurgents were slain in the last 24 hours during a massive anti-rebel drive by French troops.

The action of the Moslem assembly amounted to a virtual call for secession because Algeria is constitutionally an indivisible part of metropolitan France.

Informed sources said Governor-General Jacques Soustelle would resign if the delegates carried out their threat to walk out of tonight's consultative chamber.

The action denouncing integration said the plan, stated in (Continued on Page 12)
